

Human Rights Award of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung 2011

Awardees: Slim Amamou, Tunisia
Zahraa Kassem (sister), for Khaled Said (1982-2010), Egypt

Venue: Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung,
Hiroshimastr. 28, Conference Room 1
10785 Berlin
Date: 19 September 2011
Time: 5.00 – 8.30 pm

5.00 – 5.15 pm Film screening: Impressions of the Revolutions in Tunisia and Egypt

Followed by Welcome
Hajo Lanz
Head of the Department for Near and Middle East and North Africa,
Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung

Music by Nawel Ben Kraiem, franco-tunisian artist singing about the revolution in Tunisia

5.15 – 7.00 pm Panel discussion:
“Democracy movement in the Arab world”

Slim Amamou, Blogger/Internet activist Tunisia
Zahraa Kassem, sister of Khaled Said (1982-2010), Blogger/Internet activist, Egypt

Moderation:
Dr. Anne Würth, German Institute for Human Rights

7.00 – 7.30 pm Coffee break with visit of the exhibition:
Political Cartoons on the Arab Spring

7.30 -8.45 pm Music by Ramy Essam, key Egyptian musician who accompanied the protests on the Tahrir square in Kairo

Presentation of the Human Rights Awards to Slim Amamou and Zahraa Kassem by Kurt Beck, Vice Chairperson of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung

Laudation
Dr. Joachim Gauck, Head of the Association “Against Oblivion – for Democracy”

from 8.45 Reception

Simultaneous interpretation in German, Arabic and French